

June 2010

Hilarious

I just saw you in the funniest video on Facebook!

If you are on Facebook, you are being attacked constantly and MUST stay aware...

There are video links & news items from your friends, stories of people being arrested because of their Facebook status—and all of your friends “like” these items, so they must be safe, right?

Thanks to a new exploit called, “CLICKJACKING” you can no longer trust a link to anything just because a lot of your friends like it or posted it.

How to avoid this? For now—the only way to stay safe is to avoid clicking on any Facebook link to videos, news items or stories—REGARDLESS of who sent, posted or liked them.

As always, keep in mind that computer activities at work should be work-related and any or all of those activities may be monitored.

Be careful and thank you for taking the time to be security aware!

For more information on current cyber scams and tips to avoid them, please visit the FBI at: <http://www.fbi.gov/cyberinvest/escams.htm>

WWW.AZDOA.GOV/AIS | secadm@azdoa.gov

June 2010

Sun	Mon	Tue	Wed	Thu	Fri	Sat
		1	2	3	4 Payday	5
6	7	8	9	10	11	12
13	14	15	16	17	18 Payday	19
20	21	22	23	24	25	26
27	28	29	30			